Introduction

Resource Guide Information and Background

This document serves as a guide to resources and services in the IHS Albuquerque Area centered on HIV-related care. The purpose of this guide is to aid patients, family members, public health staff, and others working in the healthcare field in finding services across the Albuquerque Area related to HIV testing, treatment, and services, as well as those services related to common comorbidities, such as Hepatitis C Virus (HCV) and other Sexually Transmitted Infections (STIs).

This guide is a living document and continues to be updated with new resources and information. It is not comprehensive; however, it is our aim to make it as accurate and comprehensive as possible. To develop this guide, we worked with clinical providers, conducted surveys, and spoke with clinics across the Southwest. If you feel this guide is lacking a key resource or service, please contact our staff at the Albuquerque Area Southwest Tribal Epidemiology Center at 505-764-0036.

Resources are grouped into this guide by the New Mexico Department of Health Public Health Regional areas, which are pictured in Figure 1. Resources located outside of the state of New Mexico (i.e. in Texas, Colorado, or Arizona) are noted by state and generally available statewide or exclusively in the tribal areas served by AASTEC.

Scope of HIV Statistics in the Albuquerque Area

Data indicates the American Indian and Alaska Native population in the Albuquerque Area served by AASTEC experiences significant health disparities with regards to HIV, HCV, and other Sexually Transmitted Infections (STIs.) In 2018, there were 294 AI/AN individuals living with a diagnosed HIV infection in New Mexico, representing the fourth highest AI/AN count of any state in the US. In New Mexico, the rate of AI/AN individuals living with HIV exceeds that of the national average, as does the rate among the AI/AN population in Colorado (196.7/100,000 and 252.7/100,000, respectively versus a national rate of 158.2/100,000.) The AI/AN population also has the lowest 3-year and 5-year survival rates (82.2% and 72.3%, respectively) following an AIDS diagnosis.

Agencies and Clinics Providing HIV-Related Services and Care

The following sections provide information on clinics, agencies, and organizations across the Albuquerque Area IHS service area (New Mexico, Southwest Colorado, and the El Paso area) that provide services related to HIV treatment, prevention, and care. These services include the following:

- HIV Testing and Counseling Services: Includes rapid HIV testing services and laboratory testing.
 - Rapid HIV tests occur through a simple finger stick and can take as little as one minute to complete. They can provide individuals with negative or preliminary positive results. Individuals who receive preliminary positive results through a rapid HIV test must receive a laboratory HIV test in order to conclusively receive a positive HIV status. These tests are most effective within 3 weeks after being exposed to HIV.
 - Laboratory testing is conducted by healthcare providers and usually takes longer. Individuals can receive a positive or negative result within 2 – 6 weeks after being exposed to HIV. This test occurs through a blood draw.
- Pre-Exposure Prophylaxis (PrEP) for HIV: PrEP is a daily medication taken in order to prevent contracting HIV through potentially risky behaviors, such as sexual intercourse or needle sharing. It must be prescribed by a medical professional. It is a good option for individuals who may be engaging in certain activities that put them at risk of contracting HIV regularly and can further reduce risk of infection, even if other precautions are being taken.
- HIV Treatment and Care Services: In New Mexico, this can include a variety of services for individuals living with HIV/AIDS, including medical and non-medical case management, clinical care (i.e. medications, physical exams, etc.), insurance assistance programs, mental health services, substance use and addition services, medical transportation, and much more. Services may vary by clinic, agency, or organization.
- Hepatitis Services: Includes rapid Hepatitis C Virus (HCV) testing or laboratory (blood draw) testing and clinical treatment and management of HCV.
- STI Testing and Treatment Services: Includes confidential testing and treatment of common STIs, including syphilis, gonorrhea, and chlamydia.
- Syringe Exchange Services: Provide individuals who inject drugs with clean, unused needles in exchange for used needles in order to reduce harm. These services are often accompanied by education and other harm reduction services, such as naloxone distribution, resource distribution, and harm reduction education.
